Generate Facebook Marketplace Listings from an Inventory Spreadsheet

1. Get started by clicking 'Process Inventory' to convert your existing spreadsheet into impactful Marketplace listings.

2. Upload your inventory spreadsheet here to quickly prepare your products for listing generation.

3. Choose 'Balanced' for a professional listing style that combines concise intros and easy-to-read bullet points.

This screenshot shows the 'Choose a Writing Style' section of a web application. At the top, there is a file upload area labeled '10.1 KB — click or drag to change'. Below it, a text box explains that the tool works with spreadsheet layouts and that the AI reads each row as labeled data. The 'Choose a Writing Style' section asks 'How should your listings read?' and offers three options: 'Quick & Visual' (short and punchy with emojis), 'Balanced' (a short intro plus easy-to-scan bullets with a few emojis, marked as 'Default' and circled in purple), and 'Detail & Story' (full descriptions focused on the buyer). A blue 'Generate Listings' button is at the bottom.

4. Select 'Quick & Visual' for eye-catching listings filled with highlights and emojis—perfect for attracting attention fast!

This screenshot shows the same 'Choose a Writing Style' interface, but with 'Quick & Visual' selected, indicated by a purple circle. The 'Balanced' option is now marked as 'Default'. The 'Quick & Visual' description is 'Short & punchy with lots of emojis. Key specs and price only — made to stop the scroll.' The 'Generate Listings' button remains at the bottom.

5. Go with 'Detail & Story' to generate rich, in-depth descriptions ideal for high-value items.

10.1 KB — click or drag to change

Works with your own spreadsheet layout

Include a header row with whatever columns you use — product name, size, price, condition, colors, features, contact info, etc. Optional title rows above headers are OK. The AI reads each row as labeled data — you do not need our template.

Listings use your brand voice, CTAs, and buyer focus from Settings when you have filled those in.
